

The “eureka” moment occurs when you go from being stuck on a problem to having the ability to reinterpret a stimulus, situation or event to produce a nonobvious, nondominant interpretation.